

AEGEAN REGATTA

AUGUST 17 – 30..

LIMNOS, THASSOS, SAMOTHRAKI, LESVOS

Welcome

Yacht racing has for a long time been a sport that has challenged the masses. For many years it has been the sport of the rich and famous. However, today it is possible to charter a fully equipped race yacht and go racing. That's assuming you know all about the racing rules and how to manoeuvre one of these complex machines.

So how about becoming part of a crew that sails in the 10th Aegean Regatta in August 2010.

We are offering the opportunity for sailors to participate in this prestigious event. NO Prior yacht racing experience necessary. KORALIA³ is a 55 ketch that has the pedigree to be competitive on the race-course and is able to highlight well any sailor who wishes to see themselves in the winner's circle.

Join the Yacht in Athens on August 17th and help sail her to the island of Limnos in the Northern Aegean. The 10th Aegean Regatta starts August 21, the islands that will be visited during the course of the regatta will include Thassos, Samothraki, and Lesvos. The Greek Ministry of the Aegean is the organizing sponsor and helps with each island hosting different events and excursions for the regatta sailors.

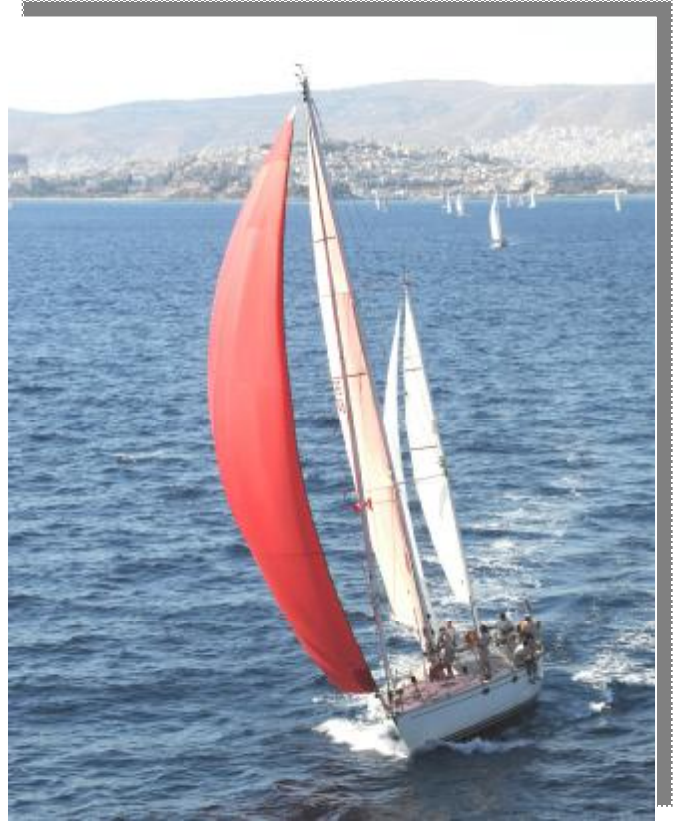

At the end of the Regatta help sails the yacht back to Athens to complete your adventure.

The Yacht

KORALIA³ is a 54-foot racing ketch built in 1989 by the French yard Jeanneau. She was designed by Guy Ribeau-Dumas in the late 80's. She was the last of a production line yacht known as the Trinidad series.

The first owner commissioned the builders to customize her more than the standard production option available at the time. She was built as a ketch as the owner was planning to race her here in Greece. With most sailing courses here being long reaches and a lot of down wind-sailing, the Ketch option was the best in terms of sail area one can hoist when sailing these courses.
